

for a living planet®

African Rhino Programme Coordinator
To be based in a WWF office in eastern or southern Africa

Would you like to provide leadership and technical support for the development, funding and implementation of the WWF African Rhino Programme; coordinate the programme through interaction with external partners and donor organizations, and fundraise for projects?

WWF, the global conservation organization is looking for a highly motivated and experienced

Key requirements:

- a postgraduate degree in natural resources management, biological sciences, or related field experience;
- solid experience of conservation issues in Africa in general, and of rhinos in particular;
- experience and understanding of field-based activities is essential;
- excellent communicator and good team building skills;
- proven technical, organizational and strong project management skills;
- strong skills in programme and project planning, monitoring, and evaluation;
- diplomatic and multi-cultural skills, particularly in the African context;
- fundraising experience essential;
- excellent oral and written communication skills in English.

If this sounds like you, then e-mail a cover letter and CV to: recruitments@wwfint.org. For further information on this position and other job opportunities within WWF, please consult our web site at <http://www.panda.org/jobs>.

Application deadline: Friday 28 October 2005